THE HOME OF THE PIPE ORGAN

Eddie Smalle is the chief fun maker and he keeps the audience in a whirl of laughter each time he appears on the stage. His Hebrew character is one of the best seen here this season. Corine Challis is a charming leading woman and her singing and dancing is one of the big features of the performance. Bennie Rumley makes his singing and dancing stand out as a feature. His moon song is one of the big hits. Nat Wikon, who plays the Irishman in conjunction with the Hebrew, receives plenty of laughs and the comedy by these two comedians keeps the house in a roar all the time. The chorus is pretty and puts plenty of life in its work and its pretty costumes are shown to an advantage. The company will remain at the Palace the entire week with a complete change of shows Wednesday and Friday.

It is announced that E. H. Southern and Julia Marlowe will reappear on the stage next season under the management of the Shuberts. Mr. Southern will appear in New York in a repertoire of modern plays, and in the spring Miss Marlowe will join him, as report says, in a farewell tour in Shakespeare plays.

"The Widow O'Brien" the opening bill presented by the "Famous French Follies" musical comedy company, pleased three large audiences at the Odeon last night. The company presents a different show from the usual run of tabloids and a number of very good specialties are introduced by different members of the company. W. L. Hall in the part of "Widow O'Brien" is a scream. The character work of Albert Harris is exceptionally good and he makes a big hit. The chorus of the company is among the best. It consists of very pretty girls and all are good singers and dancers. The comedy is all that could be desired.

There will be a change of program tomorrow afternoon when the company will present the roasting farce, "Turning the Tables." The pictures for today are "A Hazardous Courtship," an Edison comedy; "The Jaguar Trap," a jungle zoo wild animal drama, and "The Wealth of the Poor," an Essanay film featuring G. M. Anderson.

SALEM

SALEM, June 22.—The death of Mrs. David M. Boyer occurred early Monday morning of heart disease. She was the wife of David M. Boyer, a long time resident of the city, 76 years of age. She was a woman of intelligence and of a modest temperament and highly regarded by all her neighbors and friends. She is survived by her aged husband and three daughters.

ish nobleman, a youth of fine character, but somewhat reckless and daring.

A five-act Broadway production by a Broadway producer is the feature offering today at the Orpheum theater. William Elliott is fortunate in having a nice father and a nice girl as a sweetheart. But tempted by women and wine on the Great White Way of New York he, like all others, falls his money in Paris. In that city he goes from bad to worse and is finally accused of murder. There seems to be no escape, but the real truth comes to light and the man who is guilty is captured. Mr. Elliott has a fine part—that of Dick Seymour. It calls for sustained acting through many long and trying scenes. A duel of the two women with knives is a very exciting part and the audience is held breathless. The whole play is full of human interest and thrilling scenes.

Tomorrow Herbert Rawlinson and Anne Little will appear in episode number twelve of the great detective serial, "The Black Box," which will prove to be amazing.

Marie Wakamp and Wellington Player are the stars in "The Test of a Man," a thrilling film play produced by Henry McRae at Universal City. The big feature is the explosion of a moving freight train.

The Bijou program today includes Earl Williams and Anita Stewart in "The Goddess." This great film production is not a serial nor a condemnation of not scouts thrown together without rhyme or reason. It is a continued photo-play in chapters. "The Goddess"

Bryant Washburn is seen at his very best in Essanay's great six reel feature, "The Blindness of Virtue," written by Ossmo Hamilton. He takes the part of leading man, the son of a Brit-but beautiful in its story and in the development of the sweet character of the old potter, which is suddenly again plunged into transition of hate and revenge against those that have wronged him. Brooding and grieving as he continues his experiments, the never ceases to ponder over his wronged daughter who is returned to him, a wife, just as he achieved his greatest discovery and riches.

Marguerite Clark, who through her former film vehicles, "Wildflower," "The Crucible," and "The Goose Girl," has won universal renown and popularity as a notable screen acquisition from the contemporary stage, adds another signal triumph to her list of stellar successes in the Famous Players Film Company's delightful film adaptation of "Greta Green," by the famous authoress and dramatist, Grace Livingston Furniss, on the Paramount program at the Grand tomorrow.

The original play was named after the celebrated spot of the same name in Scotland where, according to the law of the early nineteenth century, eloping couples were married by the local blacksmith, the town clerk, or in fact anybody who happened to be handy at the time such impromptu marriages occurred. About this novel fact is woven one of the most ingenious and amusing romances of the day.

Deafness Cannot be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitution. All remedies for deafness are caused by a diseased condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a running sound or tinnitus hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and this the inflammation can be taken out, and the tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be restored forever. Also cases, not of this nature, but of a different kind, which is not cured by the use of medicine, but by the use of the "Hearer's Cure," which is a cure for deafness. We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.
